LOVE THE STAFF!

The inception of Xena Prop House is based on a passion for discovery and joy in collecting Xena and Hercules weaponry, wardrobe, production and set dressing items. Collecting props has quickly grown between faithful Xena and Hercules fans and we would like to challenge you to enter into our world of prop collecting. We welcome you to collaborate with our forum, contribute your personal collecting experiences and your knowledge of props, thus creating the ties that bind us together.

Xena Prop House One year Anniversary!

So lets have some fun!

Been There, Done That

X3 E 2

I am proud to say Xena Prop House has just seen one full year of monthly publications. This has been an incredible journey and I want to thank each and every one of you who were so faithful and gave your support, I could not have done this without your contribution! We are entering into a new era of Xena Prop House Publication and I would like to ask, you the readers and collectors, what you most enjoyed about the issues and what you would most like to see in the future.

If you would be so kind, please copy cut and paste this questionnaire into an email back to me after filling in the responses. I will evaluate all responses and suggestions for future issues. Thanks again for making it possible for us all to share our props with one another!

Special thanks to Chris Clogston, Deb Deguston, Julie, Kimba, Mart Burrow, and Sal for donating items for the charity auctions! Your kindness made a huge difference to those in need!

Questionnaire

1. Would branching out to other Pacific Renaissance productions such as Jack of all Trades and Cleopatra 2525 be of any interest to you?

2. Was there any past content that you did NOT find particularly appealing?

3. I will be splitting up categories for jewelry as Prop of the Month due to the amount readers have in their collections. Please submit a general list of what you have and then I can use that to help me select the categories

4. I would like to do a Q and A section by posting the questions and Answer. If you have a question about a prop or wardrobe I can direct questions to those that I believe to have advanced knowledge about the items in question, then I will post the Question and Answer so we can all benefit. If this is a section you would like to see in the publication please give me your thoughts.

5. Please feel free to list anything at all you would like to discuss here.....

Thank you for sharing! --Barbie Arms-- allaboutartgalry@aol.com

OK The Big Reveal, Who is the Black Wolf?

The Black Wolf is currently working on the Chronicles of Narnia, Prince Caspian, as prop maker supervisor. The wolf has been gracious to help us with our prop and wardrobe questions over the past year. The last movie worked on, 30 Days of Night as a props designer kept the Wolf very busy but came out of the lair to help us when possible. We are so grateful to have learned so much from The Wolf and bow to the person that designed the almighty Xena Chakram, Hail!

Here is an impressive list of film that the wolf has worked on that we recognize BEST although there were many other films

Bridge to Terabithia (2007) Props designer

Chronicles of Narnia, The Lion, The Witch and the Wardrobe (2005) Head of Department props maker

Boogeyman (2005) Props Designer

Whale Rider (2002) Prop Maker

And of course the coveted Xena Warrior Princess and Hercules Legendary Journeys (1995-2001) Props designer

Jack of all Trades (2000-2001) Props designer

The Last Samurai (2003) Costume Props Head Technician

And the Black Wolf is.....

Packing/Shipping Etiquette...Do You Value Your Customers?

I have to ask myself this question every time a packing horror story comes to my attention. To me and many "Entertainment Memorabilia Collectors" my prop/wardrobe/autograph collection is as precious to me as the one ring was to Gollum. So when I see and read these horror stories considering the way some items I received arrived I felt more than compelled to write about this problem.

So why do these situations occur? Does the seller care about their customers? Does the seller care about what they are actually selling? Is it just the money or in the case of collectors gone seller is it that once sold and the money is in the bank these sellers don't care one way or the other whether an item arrives safely since the item is no longer theirs to care about. For the most part online dealers know how and do pack very well. However, not all of them do nor do many sellers on or off eBay.

Then there are the shippers, USPS, UPS, FedEx etc. I must say that any time I received an item packed by UPS or FedEx it arrived in perfect condition including my staff of Zarathustra which is over 6' tall...However how do they handle a package once it leaves the hands of the seller then the USPS/UPS/FedEx store clerk? Not to mention a countries customs department that may or may not open the box. Let me then relate a lovely Christmas story and UPS...

Twas four nights before Christmas and walking down the street was the hustle and bustle this season will bring. The night was so nice I thought to myself I will go out right now and bring some tasty sprits home with myself. So I in my jeans, shirt, and red cap decided to cut through the alley to make it that fast. When all of a sudden there arose such a clatter that I turned around to see what was the matter. There in the lights of the UPS shops' back door were two UPS drivers picking up Christmas packages with no cheer. The packages were stacked around 8 feet from the door and the truck itself was about 4 feet more. Then one of the drivers picked up a nice sized package and with a swing of his arms sent it sailing away through the air. The second driver caught it in the blink of an eye but missed the second, third and forth and they tumbled right by. This behavior continued till the truck was packed full then the drives hopped in and buckled up to go. As they started up and began to drive away "Merry Christmas" they said, "Mike, have a great night!"

Needless to say I was floored at the thought of what was in some of those packages that fell on the ground and some fell pretty hard, were the items even still in one piece? I immediately thought about future items I would purchase. I should have realized that the drivers/warehouse workers working for the shipping kings don't care about how a package is handled once packed and in their hands. To me their attitude is "I did my 40+ hours now give me my paycheck!!! Be damned if its insured" So it is IMPERATIVE that all sellers/dealers use the utmost care in packing items for your customers. If you do not want to do it yourself due to lack of time, supplies etc. then let the folks who work for UPS/FedEx pack it for you...You must as a seller/dealer pack these items as if they were a precious piece of your own and you would assuredly pack it properly if it was...

Here are a few examples of packing/shipping issues:

Prop: Amazon Mask from Xena w/Renaissance pictures paperwork recipient Barbie Arms:

Problem: New Zealand eBay seller used a thin box with shoddy packing that caused two tears/holes in the eyepiece circled in black. The box was caved in on the top, really bad shape looked like it had been opened (probably by Customs) packing was poor not enough packing peanuts around the item unless some was removed by the customs when they opened it.

Prop: Spear from Xena recipient Barbie Arms

Problem: eBay seller packed the spear in a narrow box; spear was covered with bubble wrap but not enough packing to reinforce the box resulting in cracked wood below the spear head.

Spear as received notice the split circled in red

Prop: Original Hero Ray Gun Prop from Buffy w/Fox COA...recipient Jason De Bord

Problem: Unfortunately turned out to be an eBay seller/scammer kicked off the Movie Prop Forums and also eBay several times using different ID's names. Good box for packing but shoddy interior packing that allowed the gun to bounce around inside the box and break.

Prop as advertised on eBay

Prop as received, note the plastic bag wrapping circled in red

You will note it is only $\frac{3}{4}$ or so full of packing peanuts circled in red and the gun is just plain broken.

Prop: Original prop sword from Xena with Renaissance Pictures paperwork recipient Morgan aka "Xenasbard"

Problem: New Zealand eBay seller was misinformed and believed there to have been a metal rod running through the sword which is the case with many but obviously not all...also the seller depended on a third party to pack and ship the sword. The third party not knowing/caring simply wrapped the sword in a single sheet of bubble wrap placed it in a box and let it go.

Sword as advertised on eBay on the left

Sword as received

Sword bubble wrap removed; notice the squashed flattened box in the top right background, you can see the swords just plain broken.

And now for the last and it happened to the Aphrodite bust I currently own...What happened did not happen to me but to the original US buyer. I will note that the US buyer I bought it from took great pains to pack the restored piece perfectly.

Prop: Original Aphrodite bust from Hercules, Xena, and Young Hercules

Problem: Buyer paid an overpriced packing company who failed to do their job using a thin box with shoddy packing materials resulting in an almost fully destroyed piece.

Aphrodite bust as received:

Aphrodite bust restored.

Now this story did indeed have a happy ending (well sort of happy) as thanks to Gloria Hamlin of Hamlin Restorations <http://www.hamlinrestoration.com/> the bust was lovingly returned to its original form....

In the end it is we collectors that are the ones that loose out when items are packed poorly whether we get our money back or not...these pieces of TV/movie history are in many cases totally destroyed with no hope of restoration due to the materials involved in the making of props.
ARE YOU LISTINING SELLERS/DEALERS!!!?

I have been fortunate thus far with the props I have received, however some of that fortune has been luck...several pieces bought by me from a collector gone temporary dealer were poorly packed and I was amazed they arrived intact.

Please everyone shipping any item; be courteous to your customer and do the job right. When it comes to props/wardrobe we are dealing with items that go from the hundreds of dollars to the thousands of dollars but the cost is of no matter the fact is pack your items like a brick because the shipping giants HAVE NO MERCY on any box they receive whether it is marked fragile or not!!!

Packing 101

Props and wardrobe being as expensive as they are need special attention when packing. If you are packing ANY pieces for shipment, I give you the United States post office rule: "If you can shake it, we can break it." The following procedure takes time but they create an almost foolproof layer of protection around valuable items to be shipped.

A box is a box is a box, right? NO!!! Using the right box can make a big difference in the case of packing and unpacking, and in the safety of the items being shipped. Thick sturdy boxes are imperative for shipping props/wardrobe. For any item you need to ship no matter how well made the item is, you should find a box that most closely matches the size and shape of the packed shipment then for extra protection, place this inside a larger box with packing peanut filler in between the two layers.

For costumes be sure to use a waterproof box (many vintage clothing dealers prefer Tyvek boxes), as a wet box can cause inks on the label, box, or documents enclosed to run and damage clothing. For maximum protection, particularly for items which are to be stored, obtain an archival box and pack the garment in acid-free tissue paper. Leather items should be wrapped in craft or butchers' paper first then in the bubble wrap to protect against dew from heavy moisture in the air as leather "sweats" and the plastic bubble wrap against the leather may build moisture.

Paper props, documents, newspapers, photographs etc. should be lined on both sides with acid free paper and encased in heavy stock boards a least two inches around larger then the item on all sides. Tape the boards all the way around to totally seal the item so that no moisture may seep in. Now that you have a box and have followed the special above procedures what's next?

- 1) Wrap the piece in small-bubble wrap. If it is painted, wrap it in a layer of craft paper first to protect the finish.
- 2) Follow with a layer of large-bubble wrap.
- 3) Wrap the resulting parcel several times in stretch film, going in at least two different directions, unless shipping miniatures you will put pressure points on small and fragile parts. Use more bubble wrap and packing peanuts instead.
- 4) Choose a sturdy box (and yes I believe prop documents should be shipped in a box and NOT an envelope or padded mailer...would you ship the Declaration of Independence in an envelope or padded mailer?) with at least two inches of room on each side of your wrapped parcel. Seal the box bottom with two layers of tape on all sides.
- 5) Use sheets of Styrofoam cut to form dividers to line the top, bottom and sides of box.
- 6) Fill the bottom with a layer of Styrofoam packing peanuts. Put your wrapped parcel on top, and then fill with peanuts to the top. Use only enough peanuts to fill the space -- if you have to push down to get the box shut, remove some peanuts rather than put internal pressure on the box.
- 7) Seal the top completely all around it with two layers of tape. Label it "Fragile" with large black letters on more than one side.
- 8) Once packed, clearly write or type out the shipping label then tape the label down well completely covering it with clear tape, to prevent moisture from obscuring the information. For extra protection, include a copy of the shipping label inside the package as well. Another alternative to look into for small and medium pieces would be suspension/Korrvu® packing by the folks over at Sealed Air. Korrvu® packaging is a packaging product that uses a strong, highly resilient low-slip film to surround your products, protecting them from shock and vibration.

In conclusion all I have to say is PLEASE sellers/dealers treat you customers with the respect they deserve when packing props/wardrobe you are selling to them, your customers give you their money in good faith and you only do yourself a disservice by shoddy packing which will lead to complaints, insurance filings, and lost customers...

Gauntlets

These are very well made, all leather, the design on it is like a braided canvas and leather sewn on to the main band, they could possibly be a main character as well made as they are

If you have seen these please email Mart proxyblue@aol.com

I would like to run at least one auction a month so please check your inventory and see if you have any items to donate or if there is an item up for auction you would like to bid on. Participating in the auctions is a great way to own a piece of Xena history and show your support! I run the auctions under ebay member name inthelightofthemoon2. I loved when Xena and Gabrielle would lie down at night under the stars and talk calmly after a long DAY.

Through the kindness of our reader, Sal, this armor was donated to Xena Prop House for a future charity auction. Have you seen this armor in an episode? Please contact allaboutartgalry@aol.com if you have.

Proceeds will go to the Humane Society.

Anything for a Dinar?

Louise is publisher of this wonderful Fanzine providing information about Xena collectibles, so beautifully and professionally done.

Her ebay member name is thebattlingbard to sign up for your low cost issues.

The fanzine is a bi-monthly guide to collecting Xenabilia and comes as a PDF on CD. It is fan-written by me and I hope it will provide you with an excellent resource to help you in your collecting - I aim for it to eventually cover all types of Xena merchandise available, with all the info, pictures and facts I can lay my hands on along with full checklists to assist you in seeking out items! I have had many lovely comments from members about the depth of content and how it has helped them with their collecting - so I hope you enjoy it too! Back issues available on request.

T. Ashley Books and Journals

This Journal is owned by Anne Redding

Tedra makes fantastic books and Journals, the craftsmanship is stunning and her work is one of a kind. Every crafted item is never exactly duplicated so your personal purchase would be a rare and one off piece. We will feature a few examples of her work in every issue. Please check website www.fineblankbooks.com to see more of Tedra's work. You can also email Tedra at tedra@fineblankbooks.com if you would like her to do a special project for you. Prices correlate to extremely high quality books, journals and boxes.

Xena Prop House Books are Coming!

Available exclusively to Xena Prop House readers is a book handcrafted by bookbinder Tedra Ashley- W. She will bind a full year of Xena Prop House publication into a single hardcover volume. The book will be printed in color on acid free paper from the first June 2006 issue to May 2007. The cover will be a standard layout, not custom, so it can be made in quantity. However, those that want to purchase a bound book may have some choice for the color of the cover. If you would like to own a book please contact Tedra so she can get an approximate count of readers who are interested. You, of course, are not obligated to purchase a book until you receive more information on cost and the cover layout. This information will appear in the June issue of the Xena Prop House Publication. We want to see how much interest there will be to own a single bound volume packed with one year of valuable information. The printing company states that the more orders we get the less the printing charges will be which would reduce the price of your book. We need to get at least 10 orders for a book so the printing company will accept the project, but if we can get 30 orders the savings will be considerable.

This is a great opportunity to have your props that were featured and any participation you may have had in the publication archived in your very own book. These are real, sewn, hardcover books that are made to last.

Please Contact T. Ashley to order your custom book

Magnets and Novelties by Velda New item is a framed Chakram!

Xena Ying Yang Chakram

More Magnets

Here are some charming polymer clay items by Velda

Interesting description of her process

After kneading the polymer clay I place it through a pasta machine. This helps to condition the clay, and gives me a nice even surface to work from. Each piece is hand made, no moulds involved at all so no two items are quite the same. I use a card template for the Sword & Sais, to give me the basic shape.

For the others I usually trace the picture straight onto the clay as these have a little more detail to them. Once I have a full tray of approx. 8 or 9 items, I then paint them. For the bladed items & Chakrams, I use two layers of paint, as the silver, gold & bronze metallic paints are quite transparent. Once the paint is dry, I then add the Swarovski crystals, as the inlays for the Chakram, Sword & Scabbard. All items are then cooked for approx 30 minutes. Once everything has cooled down, I sand off any rough edges, and give them another coat of paint if they need it.

Then it's time to paint the underside of each item, when all painting is finished & dry, I glaze/varnish each item. Then comes all the leatherwork, & finally I add the tiny Neodymium magnets, which are pretty powerful for their size. Each item is signed by myself and I will be making 100 of each. That item will then be retired. There are a few other things I do to create these magnets, but I don't want to give away all my secrets.

Keychains

Free Standing Staff

If you wish to purchase any of these items, I sell them on a regular basis on e bay every fortnight under the ID of starwarriorbabe. Unfortunately due to health problems, I can't take bulk orders.

By making them at my own pace, and selling them on e bay I'm not letting you wonderful Xena fans down.

If you have any questions about these wonderful magnets and to see more that Velda makes please contact Velda warriorbabe61@tiscali.co.uk

UPDATE

Last issue Barbie had not seen a Kal Claw Sword in a collection and asked if any readers had one or knew who owned one. Mark came forward with a picture of a metal version in his collection, Awesome Mark!

This sword was seen in Xena Episode "Chakram".

Blooper of the Month

Hercules episode "King of Thieves" scene where Herc is fighting back the giant snake that is pushing against the shield...look at the red circled area and you'll see the crewman's blue jean legs... Thanks for finding that Mike!

Fact of the Month

The Black Wolf says.....

If you have a special effects weapon it was made specifically for a particular episode and is a one-off!

ALSO

Wolf says.....Xena swords with detailing on the hilt as seen circled below were used during the early seasons and without detailing during the later seasons when they remade the Master Sword. Here is an example of the detailing.
